

JOANNA PENN COOPER

Glacier

From this remove, I see us slant, evergreens, the lake out there, the rich around, huddled. I'll say my heart was a cargo of wondering that broke the cool, the white of your room. Floated there a while we did, until the needed jettison.